

Carrie O'Malley is a contemporary mosaic artist with studios in Park City, Utah and Delafield, Wisconsin.

Recognizing that creativity and beauty are powerful agents for change, O'Malley creates large-scale mosaic murals in collaboration with schools, businesses, and communities to transform and beautify personal spaces and public environments.

O'Malley studied mosaic art in the beautiful city of Ravenna, Italy. The combination of art, elaborate decoration, and architecture was a magical revelation, and a turning point in her artistic career.

Her fine art mosaics are in private collections, and her community-based murals can be found all over the globe in schools, organizations, arenas, and public spaces.
